From Campus to Global

WHO WE ARE

GlobalGen a community that aims to provide young people with new experiences through volunteering abroad, Erasmus+ projects, and international collaborations, aims to provide more opportunities, particularly for young people with ordinary passports.

We believe that every young person, regardless of economic or social circumstances, should have the opportunity to experience different cultures and develop themselves on a global scale.

For us, it's not just about going abroad; it's about learning, creating, and making an impact in the places you visit.

VISION & MISSION

Mission

- Inspiring young people to volunteer abroad, participate in Erasmus+ programs, and access grants, while providing them with fair and equitable opportunities.
- Creating spaces and connections within the GlobalGen ecosystem where they can join national and international events, congresses, competitions, ask questions, design and implement their projects.
- Contributing to young people's personal development and career journeys through experience sharing, workshops, and panels.
- Strengthening intercultural dialogue by collaborating with civil society organizations, universities, and youth networks.

Vision

- With the motto "From Campus to Global," we aim to provide more opportunities abroad, especially for universities, despite economic constraints and visa restrictions.
- To be an innovative youth group that transforms international volunteering and intercultural experiences into social benefits, not limiting them to those accessible to individuals.

Ayşe İrem Alan

Founder

I'm Ayşe İrem Alan, a 2nd-year Business student at Istanbul University and a passionate advocate for youth mobility and global learning. My journey began with AIESEC, where I joined a volunteer project in Tunisia focused on global warming and animal welfare — an experience that sparked my passion for international impact. I later led a team in AIESEC for 1.5 years, guiding 34 young people to projects abroad.

Beyond AIESEC, I co-founded PetBuddy, a social enterprise that reached the semi-finals among 200+ teams, volunteered as an English teacher in Romania, and joined an Erasmus+ project in Malta. As a fellow at Argüden Governance Academy and Yetkin Gençler, I gained experience in leadership and youth empowerment, later founding the Grants Team to support international project proposals.

All these experiences inspired me to create GlobalGen, a youth community with the motto “From Campus to Global”, making international volunteering and learning opportunities more accessible, fair, and sustainable for Turkish youth.

THE ESTABLISHMENT PROCESS

1. Building Core Team

After establishing the core team in the first stage, we determined our logo design, brand name, vision/mission/ and short/long term process plans.

We've arranged online and in-person meetings with individuals who have established communities/initiatives, as well as associations and organizations involved in several Erasmus+ projects. We've listened to their experiences and are working to move forward with more robust strategies.
